

Foundation

News

Papers

Travel

iShop

Film Archive * NEW *

The Book Review

Mailing List

Facebook

Donate | Help

Rock Art Archives

African Rock Art Archive

South African Rock Art

American Rock Art Archive

Australia Rock Art Archive

British Isles Prehistory Archive

Canada Rock Art Archive

China Rock Art Archive

France Rock Art Archive

The Chauvet Cave

India Rock Art Archive

Middle East Rock Art

Scandinavian Rock Art Archive

South America Rock Art Archive

World Rock Art

Ice Age Art

Geometric Signs

INORA Newsletter

Human Migration

Journey of Mankind

Origins

Migration Articles

World Heritage Sites

Easter Island

Stonehenge

The Pyramids of Egypt

Temples of Malta and Gozo

Tusheti - Georgia

Cave Art Psychology

Archive Index

Descent into the Cave

Mercy in the Cave of Niaux

Ancient Symbols in Rock Art

Motif: Eternal

Contemporary Artists

The Foundation

Search | Site Map

Glossary

Podcast

Links

Follow @BradshawFND

Tweet

The Cave Paintings of the Lascaux Cave

Lascaux Cave Paintings - An Introduction

Like

Share 1.2K

Follow @BradshawFND

6,984 followers

Tweet

In collaboration with Noël Coye, Conservateur du patrimoine, Ministère de la Culture et de la Communication, France.

Lascaux is famous for its Palaeolithic cave paintings, found in a complex of caves in the Dordogne region of southwestern France, because of their exceptional quality, size, sophistication and antiquity. Estimated to be up to 20,000 years old, the paintings consist primarily of large animals, once native to the region. Lascaux is located in the Vézère Valley where many other decorated caves have been found since the beginning of the 20th century (for example Les Combarelles and Font-de-Gaume in 1901, Bernifal in 1902). Lascaux is a complex cave with several areas (Hall of the Bulls, Passage gallery) It was discovered on 12 September 1940 and given statutory historic monument protection in december of the same year. In 1979, several decorated caves of the Vézère Valley - including the Lascaux cave - were added to the UNESCO World Heritage Sites list. But these hauntingly beautiful prehistoric cave paintings are in peril. Recently, in Paris, over 200 archaeologists, anthropologists and other scientists gathered for an unprecedented symposium to discuss the plight of the priceless treasures of Lascaux, and to find a solution to preserve them for the future. The Symposium took place under the aegis of France's Ministry of Culture and Communication, and presided over by Dr. Jean Clottes.

WEBSITE DONATE

Mailing List

Email Sign-Up website updates

Email

First Name

Last Name

Country

Submit

facebook

9.6K

Like

1.2K

Share

follow us on Twitter

Tweet

Follow

YouTube

YouTube 636

iShop

Bradshaw Foundation

about 2 years ago

Cave paintings of Lascaux in France were discovered on this day in 1940.

The Cave Art Paintings of the Lascaux Cave

The Lascaux Cave is famous for its Palaeolithic cave paintings, found in a co...

BRADSHAWFOUNDATION.COM

230 2 163

Red Cow & First Chinese Horse

Photograph N. Aujoulat (2003) © MCC-CNP

Sections have been identified in the cave; the Great Hall of the Bulls, the Lateral Passage, the Shaft of the Dead Man, the Chamber of Engravings, the Painted Gallery, and the Chamber of Felines. The cave contains nearly 2,000 figures, which can be grouped into three main categories - animals, human figures and abstract signs. Most of the major images have been painted onto the walls using mineral pigments although some designs have also been incised into the stone.

Of the animals, equines predominate [364].

There are 90 paintings of stags. Also represented are cattle, bison, felines, a bird, a bear, a rhinoceros, and a human. Among the most famous images are four huge, black bulls or aurochs in the Hall of the Bulls. One of the bulls is 17 feet (5.2 m) long - the largest animal discovered so far in cave art.

Bradshaw Foundation

@BradshawFND

A number of cave #paintings from Lascaux #France discovered on this day in 1940 bradshawfoundation.com/lascaux/index... #cave #art

11:06 AM - Sep 12, 2016

30 19 people are talking about this

Additionally, the bulls appear to be in motion. There are no images of reindeer, even though that was the principal source of food for the artists. A painting referred to as

BRADSHAW FOUNDATION T-SHIRTS

EarthPositive T-Shirts

'The Crossed Bison', found in the chamber called the Nave, is often held as an example of the skill of the Palaeolithic cave painters. The crossed hind legs show the ability to use perspective. Since the year 2000, Lascaux has been beset with a fungus, variously blamed on a new air conditioning system that was installed in the caves, the use of high-powered lights, and the presence of too many visitors. As of 2006, the situation became even graver - the cave saw the growth of black mold. In January 2008, authorities closed the cave for three months, even to scientists and preservationists. A single individual was allowed to enter the cave for 20 minutes once a week to monitor climatic conditions.

- Lascaux Cave Introduction
- Lascaux Cave Paintings Symposium | Page | 1 | 2 |
- Lascaux Cave Symposium Conclusions
- Lascaux Cave Symposium Results
- Lascaux Cave Paintings - The Future

Like us on Facebook & Follow us on Twitter to receive news & updates:

- France Rock Art Archive
- Bradshaw Foundation

